Creditor Pressure Demonstrating an Inability to pay debts

- 82 Following accusations in the Observer newspaper, the New York Times and the Washington Post, there has been significant adverse publicity about the use of Facebook data by Elections and Cambridge Analytica and other group companies.

83 Given the adverse press coverage that has affected tour companies and the damage to the brand, clients have either withdrawn their business or have started to withhold or contest payment of their bills.

84 By contrast, creditors have started pressing for payment. Due to the difficulties with collection, the companies have found it increasingly difficult to meet the sums outstanding or demanded

85 Whilst it is difficult to give a final picture of the companies' financial for reasons I will relate in the section, looking at the physical demands that have been presented to the companies. 75% of those are presently overdue and there are not funds to meet these debts.

86 This matter has been compounded by clients demanding the return of funds paid on account of work being done.

87 As a result of what is set out above, I believe that each of the Companies is unable to pay its debts as and when they fall due and is therefore insolvent on a cash flow basis.

Benefit of making an Administration Order

88 On 23rd March 2018, the Information Commissioner raided the shared offices of SCL in London and seized all the companies' computers holding financial records.

89 This has mean that the true financial position of the group companies has been difficult to ascertain. The group has tried to continue trading but absent that data, it is unclear which debts need to paid and should not be. It is also unclear as to what the current financial position of the group presently is. It is important for the companies to obtain a supervised moratorium so that the companies business can be sold, debts collected and the creditors addressed in an orderly fashion.

- 90 I believe that it is possible that an orderly sale of the Companies' businesses would, in all likelihood, achieve a better result for the Companies creditors as a whole than would be likely if the Companies were wound up.
- 91 There is work in progress in respect of most of the companies. In an administration there would be an opportunity to complete those contracts or at the very least realise the value on the work done.
- 92 On liquidation, the Companies assets would be realised on a forced sale basis, there would be claims from the employees (whose employment would necessarily have to end), the Companies would not be able to recover any sum for its goodwill and the recovery under its contracts would be likely to be significantly impaired given that they are already disputed and there would be no workforce to remedy any alleged issues. The opportunity to realise value of work in progress would be lost.
- 93 At pages are estimated outcome statements which have been prepared by the proposed administrators, comparing the likely outcomes for each of the Companies in Administration and compulsory winding-up. On the present facts, the costs of administration and liquidation are broadly similar. I understand from the Proposed Administrators that their statements are deliberately pessimistic and conservative because of the missing data that has been seized by the ICO and the financial uncertainties that have resulted from this action.
- 94 Having said this, significantly better realisations can be expected of the respective Companies' assets in administration.
- 95 It is far from fanciful that the businesses could be sold as going concerns. I know this because the Companies have already received offers and expressions of interest for the business and / or assets of the Companies if they could be sold as a going concern. The estimated outcome statements do not reflect the offers that have been made so far from proposed purchasers that might be willing and able to commit to The proposed administrators, whilst they have the comfort of knowing that these potential deals are on the table, would no doubt wish to see whether a better deal can be found whether by negotiation or by exposing the deal to the market. This could unlock a value for the intangible assets, such as goodwill and intellectual property rights, which the companies' accounts presently give no value to, such as may exist.

- 96 One of the companies in the group, SCL Insight Ltd was sold yesterday.
- 97 The benefit of any successful offer may also enhance the realisable value for work in progress and debtor realisations. At the moment, many customers are refusing to pay because the services have stopped or because of the adverse publicity in the press but if the services are continued by an acquirer, those debts could be more readily collected.
- 98 The potential purchasers are as follows:
- 98.1 An investor, whose identity is known but who has presently requested confidentiality, has expressed an interest in acquiring part of the business, including staff, as a going concern
- 98.2 The former director, Mr Nix has said he is interested in buying either the companies or the business and assets ;
- 99 I am conscious that any better deal the proposed Administrators may find would mean a better recovery for me and the other creditors on the money owed.
- 100 By a sale of the business as a going concern and by avoiding liquidation, it is anticipated that the Companies will enhance realisations and any return to unsecured creditors will not be diluted by claims from the employees (as their employment would be saved).
- 101 I believe that the estimated outcome statements at pages truly and fairly reflect the estimated comparative position on liquidation and administration for each of the Companies based on the intimated offers they have so far.

Qualifying Floating Charge Holders

102 Barclays Bank plc is the only creditor who would be entitled to appoint either an administrator or an administrative receiver over the Companies or any of them via an out of court process. At page is a series of e-mails from Barclays Bank confirming that confirming that they are discharging the security.

103 I am not aware of any other creditors holding security over assets of the Companies, other than the charge granted over the premises by Property in favour of Barclays.

104 A copy of the current Charges Register at Companies House for each of the Companies is at pages .

No Current Insolvency Proceedings

105 At the present time, no winding up petitions have been presented against the Companies.

Insurance/Banking

106 The Companies are not insurance undertakings, credit institutions, investment undertakings providing services involving the holding of funds or securities for third parties or collective investment undertakings.

Main proceedings

107 Each of the Companies' registered offices is in the United Kingdom and each of the Companies conducts the administration of its interests within the United Kingdom. To the best of my knowledge and belief, therefore, I believe that the EU Regulation will apply to each of the applications and that each of these proceedings are main proceedings as defined in the Regulation.

Statements of Proposed Administrator and Their Powers to Act

108 If Administration Orders are made, it is intended that Vincent John Green and Mark Newman of Crowe Clark Whitehill, 4 Mount Ephraim Road, Tunbridge Wells, Kent TN1 1EE, will act as Joint Administrators, and a statement by them in the prescribed form is attached to the respective Applications certifying that they consent to act as joint administrators of the Companies and that the purposes of the administration are, in their opinion, reasonably likely to be achieved in each case.

Relief sought

109 In the circumstances, I request that the court grant administration orders in the terms sought.

Statement of Truth

I believe that the facts stated in this witness statement are true.
